The French island approach to the Clinton street bridge crossing Black river again was in danger from the flood Monday morning, as a result of the wind whipping around to the north and along the current in coming into the north side of the bridge. The board of public works sent a crew of men to place bags of sand along the north edge of the road to prevent washing-out of the roadway during the morning.

Hits High Mark

With the water at the 13.7 mark, a half foot below the high point reached two years ago, the Mississippi river flood reached its crest here Sunday afternoon. The stage of the water remained stationary throughout the night and was still 13.7 Monday morning. The river is expected to begin to fall during Tuesday and may be an inch or two lower by Tuesday morning, as the flood is receding at all points north of here today.

Damages in the vicinity of La Crosse Sunday continued to be extensive. Many traveled roads, the Onalaska street car track, a large section of the Onalaska Green residence district in North La Crosse, the railroad tracks along the levee and the islands and lowlands north and south of the city.

No Car Service

Street-car service between North La Crosse and Onalaska cannot be resumed for several days, until the flood waters recede sufficiently to permit workmen to go over the right of way and see that the rails are in good condition.

Accidents continued to use the Onalaska highway Sunday and Monday, despite the fact there was a flood of water over the road for a distance of two blocks south of the line house.

Over the weekend water covered the eastern edge of the causeway near the north end and just south of the Monitor brewery, and the brewery yard was inundated. Raising of the street-car tracks at the corner of Monitor and Ross streets kept the right of way out of water.

Boating on Streets

Floods in boats paddling about the flooded streets and yards in the Onalaska Green district was a familiar sight Sunday. Many collars are flooded in this district and water is over the floors in some of the houses.

Few summer cottages along the river, except those up on the bluff sites, escaped being flooded. Own-

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.

Tornadoes in three central western states Sunday night and Monday morning were said to have killed at least eight persons, injured dozens, left scores homeless, with damage which probably will run into millions of dollars. Kansas, Indiana and Illinois were touched by the tornadoes, southern Illinois receiving the brunt of the disturbances.

Illinois Hardest Hit

The most damage was done in a small section approximately 20 miles square in south central Illinois where three persons were killed in the vicinity of Centerville and four were killed in the neighborhood of Irvington. Estimates of the number injured in this section ranged from 18 to more than 100.

Scores of homes were destroyed, in some cases houses being picked up by the violent winds and carried several hundred feet. Walnut Hill, Ill., also was the storm's.

At Williamsport, Ind., a farmer was killed when his house collapsed in the face of a tornado which struck near that town.

No Fatalities in Kansas

Kansas was the third state to feel the storm's but apparently there were no fatalities there. In Iola damage estimated at $100,000 was done. Windows in virtually every home were broken by hail and windstorms.

The full extent of the damage in Illinois and Indiana could not be learned because telephone and telegraph lines were demolished where over the storm struck.

One family was reported missing in Centerville while still another family of seven was dragged from the ruins of a house. The Illinois Central ran a special train to carry the injured to hospitals in Centerville.

Orphanage is Spared

The Illinois Central depot at Irvington was lifted and carried 200 feet while the tornado narrowly missed the orphanage asylum there. The school building was destroyed but the outbuildings were not seriously damaged.

Large scores of persons were searching through the ruins of the Illinois towns for missing persons and special crews were rushed to the devastated areas to restore communication.

OTIS GRANT WAIVES HEARINGS; IS HELD TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

Otis Grant, arrested in Denver and brought back to La Crosse to answer a charge of embezzlement, waived an examination in county court Monday and was held to circuit court. The same bail, $1,500, on which he was released when brought back to the city, was renewed for his appearance in circuit court. Grant is charged with embezzling $200 from the Albert Lea parking company while employed as a salesman for the La Crosse for over a year, from Dec. 30, 1918, to Nov. 1, 1920.

TRIAL OF LEN SMALL IS TODAY PUT OVER FOR ANOTHER WEEK

Postponement Asked for Arguments on Documentary Evidence and for Convention

COURT HOUSE, WAUKEGAN, Ill.—Gov. Len Small's trial on charge of conspiracy to bribe state funds was postponed again Monday, this time until next Monday.

The governor's lawyers are understood to have pointed out that an agreement covering the documentary evidence would have a month's time in the trial of the case.

The week's delay was asked because the republican state convention is to be held at Springfield Friday.

OKMULGEE, Okla.—Arraignment of Governor J. B. A. Robertson of Oklahoma and twelve other indicted after a grand jury investigation into state banking affairs in this country, was set for May 3 by Judge Boxarth, in district court here Monday. The proceedings originally had been scheduled for today but early last week Judge Boxarth granted the request of defense attorneys for postponement.

SECKY RETURNS TO "Face The Music"—He Couldn't Leave Wife And Youngsters

EASTER morning was a great day at the Secky home, 223 South Twenty-second street.

Rudy Secky came back. He came back from Chicago, but it was coming back from the dead as far as Rudy's young wife and four youngsters were concerned, because they have been mourning him for drowned since last Wednesday, when his hunting skill was found, half full of water, in Zeisler's lake.

Rudy came home at four o'clock Sunday morning, repentant and weeping. Perhaps when Mrs. Secky heard him rapping at the window, she thought for a minute it was Rudy's ghost and not Rudy in the flesh that had come. She wasn't sleeping—hasn't been sleeping since Rudy was reported drowned. Sleep doesn't come easily to young widows with four babies to think of. When Rudy rapped she was at the door in a flash.

Well, it's all right now. There were tears in Rudy's eyes Monday morning as he told about it.

"We Just Grabbed"

"We just grabbed each other," he said. "She held me for 'bout half an hour."

"God! Whatever got into me. I've got the best wife and the finest kids."

"I must've been crazy," he said. "It was not hard to get Rudy's story. He wanted to tell it. He wanted to make a clean breast of it, and then go back to his little trail shop and re-establish himself in the respect and confidence of La Crosse which he enjoyed before the adventure that now seems to him like some kind of a nightmare. The reason of his story, repeated over and over, frequently choking up with emotion, is 'Why did I ever do it? What possessed me?'"

He Gambled

In brief, Rudy's story is that of a young chap with a good gambling, a family who got to gambling, he let his bills pile up because he lost the money to pay them. He got to worrying. Two months ago, he says, he quit gambling and hasn't played since. But by that time he was so far back that he couldn't seem to make much headway. The bills kept coming in, and he was threatened with suit, with bankruptcy. He couldn't sleep. He worried, fretted.

"I guess I was kind of crazy. I didn't know what I was doing. It just seemed like I had to get away. I made a mess of everything, and I wanted to run away from it."

Tuesday morning I said I was going hunting. I took my gun and hunting clothes, and went down to my boat house back of Gund's. I put the boat into the skiff, and shoved it off with my foot. My face was all wet and cold with tears as I thought that now my wife would think I was drowned. But I had to go on, it seemed like.

I rode my bicycle up to my father's house and left it there. Then I came down to my shop and changed my clothes. I threw my boots in the river. I went to the depot, and I stood behind a post so that the policeman wouldn't see me. Nobody else was around at that time in the morning.

"I Just Couldn't"

"I got to Chicago in the afternoon, and got a job with a tailor on Halstead street right away. I didn't know anybody. I had a little room and I would lie there nights and think of my wife and my kids. I couldn't stand it. I was going to write to my wife, but then I thought they would come after me. I was dead. I had to stay dead. I tried to keep it up. But I couldn't. I just couldn't."

Thursday night I decided that whatever happened I had to come back. So Friday I quit. I had some trouble with my boss. I told him I had to get back home. I didn't tell him why. He wouldn't give me cash, but finally I got a check. Another fellow who worked there offered to take me to his brother's house to get it cashed. But when he took me there it was the toughest place I ever saw—all dirty, and full of 'boos. The fellow I was with went and talked to a couple of these tough

FRANK AND ANNA KABAT DIVORCED 28 YEARS AGO, REWED; ASK DIVORCE AGAIN

ON Feb. 1, 1884, Frank Joseph Kabat and Anna Kabat were married. On Dec. 19, 1894, they were divorced. On Jan. 10, 1922, they were remarried in this city, after a separation of twenty-eight years.

On April 17, 1922, Kabat, through his lawyer, Fred H. Hartwell, filed suit for divorce in circuit court.

Kabat charges that two weeks after they were remarried, Mrs. Kabat began a course of cruel and inhuman treatment, using abusive language and being of a quarrelsome disposition.

On Jan. 24, Kabat alleges a man called at his home to visit his daughter and as a result of this visit, a fight ensued between him and his wife, which ended with the wife telling him to get out of the house, to get his clothes and never return.

Kabat is 61 years old and his wife is 55 years. They have four married children.

FRANK AND ANNA KABAT DIVORCED 28 YEARS AGO, REWED; ASK DIVORCE AGAIN

ON Feb. 1, 1884, Frank Joseph Kabat and Anna Kabat were married. On Dec. 19, 1894, they were divorced. On Jan. 10, 1922, they were remarried in this city, after a separation of twenty-eight years.

On April 17, 1922, Kabat, through his lawyer, Fred H. Hartwell, filed suit for divorce in circuit court.

Kabat charges that two weeks after they were remarried, Mrs. Kabat began a course of cruel and inhuman treatment, using abusive language and being of a quarrelsome disposition.

On Jan. 24, Kabat alleges a man called at his home to visit his daughter and as a result of this visit, a fight ensued between him and his wife, which ended with the wife telling him to get out of the house, to get his clothes and never return.

Kabat is 61 years old and his wife is 55 years. They have four married children.

Mirrolac and Velour are wonder products. Mirrolac restores scarred surfaces to their original beauty as if by a "magic touch." It gives new expensive wood a finish that imitates perfectly the appearance of more expensive woods, such as Oak, Mahogany and Walnut.

Velour is the ideal Flat Wall Finish which perfectly illustrates a principle that every great artist insists upon; namely, that there is no necessary conflict between beauty and utility; but that they are rightly considered one and the same thing.

NEAR EAST RELIEF DOING GOOD WORK TO ASSIST NEEDY

Thousands Saved from Starvation by Work of the American Relief

The economic regeneration of the Near East under American sponsorship has begun, according to a statement issued by Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of that organization.

The American motto: Help a fellow to help himself is the keynote of the latest program of relief work launched by an American organization. Mr. Vickrey declared: "The Near East Relief has just shipped a cargo of American tractors and seed grain out to Transcaucasian Russia, to arrive in time for the spring planting. An American agricultural expert went along to show the natives how to use modern American farming machinery and to give them lessons in dry farming. Seventeen thousand six hundred acres of land have been turned over to the Near East Relief by the Government of the Armenian Republic, and on this land the larger orphan boys, who were rescued from starvation four years ago by American relief workers and have been brought up by them to be healthy, capable lads full of energy and initiative, will be given the equipment to go out and turn their war-devastated country into a modern garden of Eden. It is the finest note in the history of American philanthropy, this definite, practical step to teach a whole generation how to take care of itself according to the best American standards."

Economic regeneration is not the only self-help phase of the work of the American Near East Relief, however. Schooling also has its part. Mr. Vickrey states, and cites the fact that in Beirut, alone, the capital of the Armenian Republic, 3,238 orphan children under American care are being taught by a staff of native teachers, a large number of whom are university graduates, rendered destitute by the appalling conditions of chaos which exists throughout the Near East. Teachers of the highest qualifications are given food and lodging by the Near East Relief in return for their services in taking care of the education of the children whom American charity has rescued from death. Mr. Vickrey states:

"In an orphanage compound at Alexandropol, we had, last October, 6,965 children; in another, 4,336 while in the third at the same station we had 3,000 more, over 14,000 little ones in one spot." Mr. Vickrey said: "Today, that number is increased one third owing to the bitter winter that always drives even children who have relatives, but are without food to keep them alive, into the Near East Relief shelters. But we cannot possibly keep this work going—keep those babies alive—unless the American people get behind the thing and give generously to save them."

An especial appeal for funds is being made in La Crosse, Wisconsin, beginning April 23rd. A Committee of which Mrs. H. J. Bullback is Chairman has advised the faith of her committee that no children need be turned out to starve if the people of La Crosse, Wisconsin can save them.

SHUBERT VAUDEVILLE PROCLAIMED WONDER SHOW

The opening of Shubert vaudeville at the Riviera Theater yesterday, proved to be the biggest thing that has ever been put over successfully in this city. This show without any expectations, and was without any exception, and was wonderful thing ever presented at such popular prices. The only fault that could be found, was that the theater was not large enough to accommodate the hundreds that were turned away at both matinee and evening performances.

The big feature act "Yvette and Company" scored a big hit and was a big treat, as nothing of this kind, had ever been shown here before. This act came direct from New York to play an engagement at Minneapolis and then coming to La Crosse, it is the popular opinion that this act is the most gorgeous spectacle ever presented on a vaudeville stage. There is no doubt but that Shubert vaudeville is the vaudeville supreme, and lovers of things artistic and high class talent, will long remember this opening bill because of its supremacy. Mae Murray in her latest and greatest success "Fascination" revealed her ability as an emotional actress as well as a chic dancer, and aided in making the Riviera program the best in the city. Fascination prevailed throughout this splendid program not only in the picture, but the big time vaudeville bill. The act for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday promise to be more "Fascinating" than ever.

VALENTINO, DALTON—LA CROSSE

This is a dramatic story of the sea, with scenes along the coast of Norway, in Magdalen Bay, Mexico, and along the waterfront of San Francisco. The principal action takes place aboard two sailing vessels, one a trader and the other a smuggling ship, commanded by Captain Kitchell, a murderous tyrannical seaman. Ramon Laredo, played by Rudolph Valentino, is a society man, who has been shanghaied, and forced to join Kitchell's crew. On the other vessel, which becomes a derelict, is Moran, a girl of the sturdy, rough, seafaring type. Kitchell finds the derelict, and from then on ensues a series of highly dramatic complications, which makes the average spectator grip his seat and lose himself in the realism of the picture.

Dorothy Dalton was excellent in the role of Moran, while Mr. Valentino gave a powerful portrayal of Ramon. The support generally, was of the best.

Daniel Steele, which won first prize for 1920 offered by the O. Henry Committee of the Society of Arts and Sciences, as the greatest short story published within that year. That act naturally added to its possible motion picture value, but the difficulty of picturizing it must have appeared almost insuperable. The plot is founded upon the sound of footfalls and the various impressions they made on the mind of a blind cobbler possessed of an abnormally keen sense of hearing; and William Fox and Director Charles J. Brabin have succeeded, it is said, in actually conveying the impression of sound and hearing in the "silent drama."

The cast includes Tyrone Power, Eddie Taylor, Tom Douglas and Gladys James.

SPRING PLANTING IN WISCONSIN IS DELAYED BY RAINS

Frost Barely Out of the Ground in Some of Northern Counties

MADISON, Wis.—Spring plowing and planting in Wisconsin has already been delayed more than a week by cold and wet weather, the state crop service reports Monday. It says that in some northern counties the frost is just out of the ground.

With floods in the eastern and southern part of the state, some fields of winter wheat, rye and grass are said to have suffered severe damage. Seeding of oats and spring wheat is reported as already one week late.

A surplus of seed corn is reported everywhere in the state, while there is said to be a shortage of potatoes for seed, except in the northern and northeastern districts. All sections are short of good seed oats and clover, with a shortage of barley and alfalfa in some counties and a shortage of seed peas in some northern sections.

Because of the shortage of all feed except corn, the condition of livestock is said to be only fair. Clearing and brushing by soldiers is under way in the northern counties.

Here's a lady out of the dim past, you students of the history and literature of long ago.

And she's both in history and literature, too. A famous young lady, in fact, and her foolishness had some death-dealing effects before she got through.

Just how the young lady looked, we don't know, so the artist could hardly do justice to what we are told of her beauty. Don't let your examination of this picture be confined to the lady, however. Be sure to look at the background of the picture, for it is probably there that you will find the hint of her identity.

If you don't get it immediately, however, just refer again to that list of forty-nine that you have, and a little study will reveal the lady's name to you.

We are getting along to the end now, so be sure to pick out a candidate for the missing fiftieth wife, if you haven't done so already, and you'll soon be in line for your share of the $150.

son "Mr. Pim" was put on once more. From such an established humorist as A. A. Milne, author of "The Dodo Book" and "The Dodo Book About Blandine," a witty play might be expected and the expectations are fully realized in "Mr. Pim." It is an evening of laughter at the theater, but laughter inspired by brilliant lines and clever situations. The story of how the blundering Mr. Pim causes consternation in a solid family is deliciously told. As Olivia, the central figure in the comedy, Miss Laura Hope Crews is seen to especial advantage. Others prominent in the company are Dudley Digges as Marden, the rather convention-bound husband; Leonard Mudie, Allison Brandshaw, Briskine Sanford, Augustin Hayland and Madeline Barr.

The Hope of Eternity Translucency is stamped on all our possessions, occupations and delights. We have the hunger for eternity in our souls, the thought of eternity in our hearts, the destination for eternity written on our inmost being and the need to ally ourselves with eternity proclaimed by the most short-lived trifles of time. Either these things will be the blessing or the curse of our lives. Which do you mean that they shall be for you?—Alexander MacLaren.

When food or people are too rich they don't agree with one.

RULES OF "FOOLISH WIVES" CONTEST

1. The "Foolish Wives" contest will run for twelve days, starting Sunday, April 9, and ending Thursday, April 20. Each day a picture will be published representing a famous "Foolish Wife" from history, mythology, drama or fiction. Each day this newspaper will print the picture of one of the persons named in the list of forty-nine people which is printed today and will be reprinted every day.
2. The first thing necessary to win one of the ninety-two prizes is to clip from this newspaper each day the picture of a "Foolish Wife" and mark the missing fiftieth name. Who is another famous "Foolish Wife" whose name is not among the forty-nine? In naming the fiftieth "Foolish Wife" letters must not exceed fifty words, and must be written on only one side of the paper.
3. Prizes will be awarded to the twelve illustrations, and in addition submit the best suggestion for the fiftieth "Foolish Wife." The first prize will be $50; the second, $10; then the next 10, $1 each, and the next 50, two tickets each to see "Foolish Wives."

DRY OFFICER CALLS FOR STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF LAW BARRING HOME BREW

MADISON, Wis.—Strict enforcement of the Severson prohibition law which makes it illegal to manufacture wine or beer in the home for home use, will be undertaken by the prohibition department, W. Stanley Smith, commissioner, says Monday in a letter to all peace officers of the state.

Accompanying the letter is a copy of the decision of the Supreme court, written by Justice Doerflinger, holding that home-brewing is unlawful. Mr. Smith says that he is in hearty accord with the opinion which declares that "in a democracy like ours, the voice of the people becomes the law of the land, and must be respected and enforced, in order to make such a form of government a success."

"To make the contention that there is any doubt whatsoever about the meaning of the provision of the prohibition law prohibiting manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, is to ignore the plain meaning of, and to public act clearly expressed, and to permit to go unheeded for over a quarter of a century, expressly designed to efface the very purpose it was intended to bring about by such enactments," Justice Doerflinger wrote.

Commissioner Smith wrote that "this decision upholds the contention that it is unlawful to manufacture wine in the home for home use. The same rule would of course apply to home made beer containing alcohol in excess of one half of one per cent."

It is also pointed out in the letter of the prohibition commissioner that where it is incumbent upon the state to prove that a person has no permit from this department to handle intoxicating liquors, it is probably sufficient if the district attorney testified that no application for such permit has been presented to him for his approval.

RADICAL CHANGES FOR BETTER TAKING PLACE IN RUSSIA

So Writes Former Badger Resident Now in Moscow to Governor Blaine

SAYS COMMUNISM DIES WITH ADOPTION OF NEW POLICY

Officer Tells of Need of Trained Americans to Help Restoration

MADISON, Wis.—The gradual return of Russian political and economic conditions to what he believes normal, with a new chapter opening in the affairs of that country, is told by Major A. S. Merz, formerly of Madison and now representative of an American trading company in Moscow, writing Gov. J. J. Blaine from that city March 12.

Major Merz, who served with the U. S. expeditionary forces in Siberia during the war, tells the need for training Americans to help in shaping the new history of Russia, which he says is beginning now. While the Germans are said to be leading the way in business with the country, the writer says that he believes Americans could hold their own with competition should this country resume trade relations.

"Radical changes for the better have taken place within the last six months," Major Merz wrote the governor. "With the adoption of the new economic policy, which means the return to capitalism, private ownership and trading, communism died. Russia's fever is going down and she is coming back."

"Political conditions are quiet—in fact most thinking people regard a change at this time as disastrous. Both intervention and the famine have had tendencies to unite the people. Workers here are reported as becoming more and more conservative."

"The American delegate to the third international is advertising our 20,000,000 rubles lately. He is about to lead an expedition into Siberia where he has secured a concession to operate some mines."

"With 60 cents American money you are a millionaire in this country, the dollar reaching the unprecedented mark of 1,000,000 rubles lately."

"There are fewer policemen in Moscow than anywhere else in the world for a city of its size, and until recently there was very little crime. Robbers are usually sentenced to death. According to Korliouko, the supreme dictator of the supreme revolutionary council, a position similar to that of attorney general of the United States, the average executed per day throughout Russia since the October revolution is two."

"The fourth anniversary of the execution of the Red army held recently in the Red Square of the Kremlin was particularly to foreigners, an interesting sight. About 50,000 soldiers, their discipline evident, snappily saluted Trotsky as they passed the reviewing stand. They impressed me as being a little too young but well-equipped, well-led and apparently in good condition."

"The Germans are easily leading the field in business, granting easy terms and making quick deliveries, which is what the Russians are looking for. At present they are making preparations to stage a huge industrial fair early this summer."

"The real history of Russia is beginning now. In the story of her foreign relations, it is now that the road forks, for she is coming back to life. The new Russia should not and will not be divided by any military force. The presence of one trained American will do far more good than thousands of soldiers."

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and thousands of women and men of value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning small strands disappear; but what the gray hair ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, before a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

HISTORY MADE EASY

The family was seated at dinner and the conversation turned to school lessons, much to the consternation and disgust of little Cynthia.

"What period in English history are you studying?" asked her father.

"The Stuart," said Cynthia eagerly.

"There was a long pause as father thought out a question to put to his daughter. He was a little hazy about facts, but at last he propounded his poser.

"What was the first thing James I did when he came to the throne?" asked father solemnly.

"Sat on it, I suppose," replied Cynthia with calm conviction.—Answers, London.

RAISE 'EM THE FUL-O-PEP WAY

The Ful-O-Pep Way of Feeding chicks has changed the old expensive "grain feeding way" and has proven to poultry raisers that the old method of grain feeding is all wrong. The Ful-O-Pep Way of feeding instead of only 1 pound of gain to each 4 pounds of feed, which is the basis of figuring cost of production arrived at by experiment stations covering several years experiments with grain feeding. Why continue to feed this old expensive way when The Ful-O-Pep Way will give you the same gains with only half the feed?

Gives You 1 Pound of Gain at Cost of 2 Pounds of Feed

FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH

Costs Less Per Pound of Gain Made Than Any Other Feed

The Ful-O-Pep Way consists of feeding Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash from the very start—continuously keeping it before your birds all the time. Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash, because of the high feeding value of its Oatmeal, fish and bone contents goes twice as far as grain feeds—every ounce is digested by chicks' delicate digestive organs—there is no waste and when compared in pounds results cost only half as much in pounds of feed consumed for gains in pounds of meat produced. Furthermore, your losses from bowel and digestive troubles that arise from feeding hard indigestible grains, will be very much less and your flock will be of even growth and development. Give The Ful-O-Pep Way a trial this season—it will reduce your feed costs and materially increase your profits.

SPORTS WORLD PAYS ANSON LAST TRIBUTE

"Grand Old Man of Baseball" is Buried Today in Oakwood Cemetery

LANDIS PREPARING TO CREATE POSITION FOR BASEBALL DADDY

Anson Had Declined Offers of Clubs of Purse

CHICAGO, Ill. — The body of Adrian C. Anson in the presence of thousands of baseball fans and members of his family. Final funeral services Sunday afternoon at which Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, delivered the eulogy.

The cemetery where the body rests is close to Jackson Park, where Mr. Anson spent much time in recent years on the golf links and at the traps. The body of Mr. Anson, now buried in Philadelphia, will be brought here and interred at his side.

Hundreds from every walk in life, including public men of Chicago, and leaders from every branch of the world of sports, gathered at the C. H. Jordan chapel, 166 N. Michigan avenue, Sunday, to pay last homage to "Cap." Adrian C. Anson, the "grand old man of baseball." At every large semipr park in the city, the stands rose in tribute to the memory of the dean of the big leagues.

Declines Purse Offer

NEW YORK. — Pop Anson's death in Chicago has brought to light the fact that Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was preparing to create a position in his retinue for the "Daddy of Baseball," and that he had discussed the proposal with Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Nationals, during the training season in the south.

Revealing this information McGraw told how Anson had declined offers of leagues and clubs to designate a day to celebrate and to fill his empty purse with the gate receipts, for many unfortunate ventures had swallowed the funds the veteran had accumulated in his prime.

"He was too proud to accept it," McGraw explained.

PLAY DAVIS CUP PRELIM MATCHES IN EUROPE, PLAN

NEW YORK. — Probability that most of the matches in the upper half of the draw for the Davis cup contest would be held in Europe was discussed by United States Lawn Tennis association officials Sunday after receipt of a message from Australasia that its players were leaving immediately for England.

The United States association recommended that the early rounds be played in Europe so as to serve the interests of most all nations concerned. Canada will have to send its team abroad to play France and the winner will meet Denmark, which drew a bye. If Australasia defeats Belgium, it will meet the victor of the Hawaii-Czechoslovakia contest.

The status of the lower half of the draw has not been determined, due to an extent to Tetsuji Kikumage of the Japanese team, who was expected to have arrived in Japan Saturday, and an effort was being made to learn what arrangements he could make to return to England in June for a first round match against Italy.

THE WEATHER IS ALWAYS WITH US

There are many who say that the seasons are changing, but a glance at a weather calendar shows that the "extraordinary weather" at midsummer or any other season of the year is very ordinary indeed. In January, 1862, Peary noted in his diary that a fast day had been ordered by parliament "to pray for more reasonable weather." It having hitherto been "summer weather." In June, 1771, Swift was rendered excessively peevish by the heat. In July, 1757, Walpole writes, "I have made a tour of my garden but once these days before eight at night, and then I thought I should have died of it. For how many years we shall have to talk of the summers of '57." In 1850 July was so hot that Wordsworth could not sit outdoors, and, as Dorothy tells us, "went into the wood and altered his poems."

Question: Is the frog a good live bait for casting in the fall and should you go right into the weed beds and snags for the strike?—C. C. Answer: One bait which seems to make them cross their fins and murmur a fish prayer to the Great Spirit of the Waters is the live frog, a recognized Indian summer bait. The way a small-mouth bass will try to take advantage of a defenseless frog on a hook these days should be reported to the coroner for he will make a pushing strike that has "40-pound muskellunge" smeared all over it in pink letters. In order to wind a black band around the bait they have of stripping the frog from the hook with a short strike, use one of those convenient little double-hook outfits (one hook in the snout and the other between the frog's legs) and tie the little green coxer loosely, with a waxed thread to the shaft of the hook. Casting into protracted bays, where windfalls abound and where weeds are thick is a good bet almost any time, as all anglers know, but right now if the frog, minnow or bright-colored artificial (which latter does good execution) are used in the deeper bays of the same formation a better record of strikes will be chalked up. Don't worry about the splashing of the bait and repeat the cast several times for natural splashes of real chow, with-out a string attached, have been so few since the nippy weather began that it will only serve to interest any of the bronze backs who will take to the bait like we humans half-Nelson a mess of strawberries around Christmas time.

CLEVELAND BLANKS ST. LOUIS BROWNS

Mails Victor in Great Hurling Duel, Allowing But Six Hits

CLEVELAND. — Cleveland knocked St. Louis out of a tie for first place on Sunday when it defeated the Browns, 3 to 0, in a pitchers' battle between Mails and Shocker. The former held St. Louis to six hits and allowed two Browns to reach third. He received sensational support. Shocker yielded eight hits.

The largest April crowd in the history of the park was present. Score: St. Louis, 0; Cleveland, 3. Batteries: Shocker and Severoid; Mails and Nanaunaker.

Marks 5; Senators 1

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Philadelphia Athletics won their opening game of the season with the Nationals, 5 to 1, on Sunday, largely through the pitching of Bryan Harris, coupled with six errors by the locals. Harris fanned eight of the Griffins. Score: Philadelphia, 5; Washington, 1. Batteries: Harris and Perkins; Cleson and Gharrit.

Sox 7; Tigers 6

CHICAGO. — Chicago won its first game of the season on Sunday by defeating Detroit, 7 to 6, in ten innings. The locals played an uphill battle and took the lead in the seventh, only to have Detroit stage a rally in the ninth and tie the count. McClellan's double and singles by Collins and Strunk sent home the final run. First baseman Blue was ordered out of the game by Umpire Moriarty for arguing over a decision. Score: Detroit, 6; Chicago, 7. Batteries: Oldham and Bassler; Faber and Schalk.

KELLY GETS FIRST HOMER OFF RUDOLPH RUTH PLAYS SUNDAY

NEW YORK. — George E. Kelly, 1921 National league home run champion, tallied his first 1922 circuit drive in the Giant-Brave game Sunday at the Polo grounds.

Long George's wallop was made off one of the curves of Dick Rudolph, one of the old hurling masters, essaying a come-back. Dick, who once made history with George Stallings "miracle team" seemed destined to success when he flattered, after holding the Giants at bay six innings.

Babe Ruth, the exiled Yankee, rejoined his team for a day at Baltimore and connected for a homer in an exhibition game against the Orioles.

TWO FREE THROWS ALLOWED ON PERSONAL FOULS IS NEW RULING IN BASKETBALL GAME

NEW YORK. — Alteration of the foul rule in basketball, including the extension of the foul line across the playing court and allowing two tries for a basket to victims of personal fouls in a designated foul zone, was adopted Saturday by the national board of approved basketball officials.

It was the first radical change of the rule to be made by a governing basketball organization in twenty years, and was decided upon after a two-day discussion, during which certain officials recommended abandonment of the basket from foul and other drastic alterations.

Change in Dribbling Rule. The board ruled that personal fouls should be declared in event of deliberate pulling, pushing, charging, or tripping, delaying the game, coaching from the side lines, and unsportsmanlike conduct.

For minor offenses, such as violations of the running, hand behind back, and dribbling, the ball will be given to the opposing team out of bounds. When the ball is held with both hands in the foul area, it will be tossed up on the foul line.

In connection with dribbling, the board ruled that a player may take one step and must not end of the ball before the back foot leaves the floor.

Re-elect All Officers. All officers of the national board of approved basketball officials were re-elected at the annual meeting Saturday afternoon. They are Chairman William H. Ball, M. C. A. New York; Secretary George T. Hapner, A. A. U. New York; Treasurer Ralph Morgan, N. C. A. A. Philadelphia; editor of rules book, and Oswald Tower, Andover academy.
